Tinnitus (Ringing in the Ears)

Suffering with tinnitus is often unbearable for those afflicted, leaving them feeling like they would go to great lengths to end their misery. Many of them end up at doctors' offices in hopes that the doctor can help rid them of the ringing in their ears, sadly, most doctors can only treat the symptoms, and even that can be limited at best. You should not lose hope however, just because the doctors do not know how to cure tinnitus does not mean that there is no cure. Tinnitus and chiropractic is just one of the treatments that is being explored and seems to hold some hope for a percentage of tinnitus sufferers.

The simple facts are that tinnitus does not have just one cause, meaning that each case of tinnitus will have a different treatment. It is important for you to find out what is causing your tinnitus, sadly there is no way to do this through your doctor, no tests that are available save the hearing test that will determine if you suffer from a loss of hearing. This leaves you approaching your tinnitus with a trial and error method, trying different techniques till you find ones that produce some sort of results.

The theory behind chiropractic is to reverse the subluxations in your spine that can reduce blood flow and impair nerves, since research has found that both of these conditions are thought to contribute to tinnitus. Chiropractic has been shown to offer great improvement for many of those suffering from ringing in the ears. When you have tinnitus that is caused by hearing loss, you may think that nothing can help. You should never quit trying or lose hope since researchers are finding some interesting findings. Many researchers believe that the hearing loss does not actually cause the tinnitus as much as it causes you to be aware of it as you strain so hard to hear other sounds. Chiropractors have found that the same treatments that help patients without hearing loss often help those with hearing loss. Often times there are many underlying causes for the ringing in your ears and addressing each one of these causes can help you have the best results for dealing with your condition.

SUCCESS STORY

C. Ripley
Treatment: Tinnitus

“I came to Dr. Shiels with ringing in my ears. I have tried everything but couldn't get it to stop. I am so impressed how informative Dr. Shiels was and how quickly I started to get results. I have had ringing in my ears for the last 9 months and it stopped after 1 week of care! My husband and daughter are now under his care too! This is the most professional and effective treatment I have ever received in chiropractic. “
